

ARNOLD DOUGLAS BROWN

Some 35 years ago Mr. Arnold Douglas Brown became associated with Donald McKay, Chief of the Warm Springs Indians. This was soon after the close of the Modoc War of 1873. The whole country was at that time interested in the success of Donald McKay and his Warm Springs Indians and their war against Captain Jack and his Modoc warriors.

Arnold Douglas Brown became interested with Donald McKay in giving a series of Indian exhibitions, visiting all the large cities of the United States. With these Indians there was an old Indian Medicine Man who had been taken along by the company to look after the health of the tribe in case of sickness.

This old Medicine Man and Arnold Douglas Brown became staunch friends and many valuable secrets of how to make medicines as the Indians used them, were given Mr. Brown. Among them was the formula of Brown's Native Herbs in Liquid Form, composed of roots and herbs of the forest.

In after years Mr. Arnold Douglas Brown kept experimenting and gradually perfecting a system of production whereby he brought out this great Indian Medicine and gave it the name of Brown's Native Herbs in Liquid Form. A medicine which has made Mr. Arnold Douglas Brown famous throughout the country, because this remedy has proven itself as simple as Nature itself. It brings about a healthy, lasting action and effect upon the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood. Building up the Blood, purifying the system, strengthening the nerves and restoring healthy action to every function of the human body. People suffering with Stomach Trouble, Constipation or feel run-down in any way will find Brown's Native Herbs in Liquid Form a great medicine. All druggists sell it at $1.00 a bottle. ## THE MID-SUMMER GOWN FOR YOUR WARDROBE.

Full Pleated Over-Skirts Vie in Popularity With Narrow Pleated Underskirts.

The Afternoon Gown Almost Decollete.

NEW YORK, July 15, 1914.

Now that the stores are beginning to sell their goods at reduced rates, preparing already for their fall and winter stock, is it not time for you to take advantage of the bargains and buy yourself a new dress?

Just the thing you need to keep your wardrobe in the vanguard of the proper thing, to wear at the right and proper moment is my first illustration—a dress of eponge and linen. The lower waist and tunic are of pleated eponge, which is mottled blue and white. The lower skirt, collar, cuffs and girdle-belt are of coarse white linen. Blue cloth-covered buttons fasten the front of the waist and the girdle. With this dress are worn with white stockings and shoes of dull blue to match the blue in the eponge.

The separate blouse is having another strong vogue this season. They are almost all severely plain, but of the sheerest of materials—organdy, Swiss, chiffon and sheer crepe. The waist on the figure illustrated is of thin handkerchief linen. The front is set in and connected to the rest of the blouse by narrow French beading. The collar is picot edged, which is the newest way to have all these edges finished. By the way, this picot edging is merely machine hemstitching cut through the center. Notice, my fair lady, the skirt worn by this model! Can you believe your eyes? Yes, it is truly pleated, and I am really afraid to tell you how many yards around it is, but it is not quite as bad as perhaps you think—only three and one-eighth yards. Who will reveal the most in this freedom of limb—you, who stride again instead of mincing, or the husband or friend, who has been compelled to adjust his step to your Japanese toddle?

Many of these new skirts which appear wider at the bottom are made with a yoke or a yoke effect with a long and pleated tunic, the underskirt having a circular or pleated flounce. A wide sash is often worn with these skirts of silk or of the same fabric if it is soft enough. It is placed high in front and is tied in the back with a dip.

For the evening gown the flounced skirt is very popular. In lace, tulle, or organdy these many ruffled skirts are most alluring and reminders of what our sweet young grandmothers wore.

There is a new gauze organdy made of silk and of the quality of chiffon, with the durability of voile, which is most attractive when made up in these gowns of the crinoline days.

What was considered decollete a short while ago and only suitable for evenings are now thought to be perfectly correct and proper for afternoon and other informal occasions. A dress I saw not long ago had a waist which was composed principally of two pointed pieces of Nattier blue satins draped up to either shoulder, front and back.

For an instant I stood aghast and thought that was all there was to the waist, but lo! over the arms and shoulders was the thinnest of blue tulle, which served the purpose of covering the arms with long and tight sleeves, and to give a coating of conventional to the waist, as it came up to a puritanically high neckline. The skirt was of black satin, with a long tunic of the blue tulle embroidered in gold thread.

The waist which cuts low in front and with which is worn a guimpe or vest is very good this season. The armhole droops very low on the shoulders of these blouses and a full little bishop sleeve of organdy is attached.

The circular redingote tunics are the latest thing in the long tunics. They are open in front, or buttoned, and sometimes show the underskirt.

Among the new materials which will be shown for the late summer are heavy soft faille silks and a new grosgrain taffeta in wonderful shot and changeable effects. This new taffeta has much more weight to it than the taffeta so commonly used this summer.

Are you thinking of buying a new suit which will also be serviceable for fall? If so, buy it of gabardine, or serge, or broadcloth. The former materials have shown their serviceable qualities through a spring and summer of being the most worn fabrics, while broadcloth will be the most popular for the fall. The two colors which are superceding the tremendous vogue of blue are prairie green and maroon.

Vests are a necessity in the wardrobe of even the woman who does not always try to keep up with the latest whims of fashion. Charming ones can be made of cetone. This is also used for collars and cuffs on suits. The large figures are sometimes outlined with black in a heavy silk or cotton, which brings out the coloring in a striking manner.

Charming little dresses are made of crepe which have jackets of the same, and the waist sometimes the same and sometimes of organdy. A bit of embroidery in black and red woolen thread is most effectively placed in the corners of the jacket, the collar and the cuffs. If there is a sash of the same, which is often the year, this same embroidery is placed on either end. The hat worn with this costume should be of white, and trimmed with a band of white, which is also embroidered in these colors.

Net petticoats are a charming addition to the summer lingerie. They are made with very little fullness and are gored a little so that they flare around the bottom. The lower edge is either scalloped or bound and each panel is made daintier by the addition of an embroidered design. A heavy thread lace is often used to connect the seams.
